Software

360plusfeedback.com

Feedback is essential to continuous improvement of any kind. Few companies use feedback consistently because sending out surveys and compiling data can be time consuming and expensive.

This web-based feedback system is easy to use and affordable! Designed with the Organizational Development Professional in mind, the software allows for total customization of competences, skills, surveys, and categories.

The system allows you to set your own target or benchmark numbers and allows for your own linked recommendations for improvement actions.

The system comes standard with a list of skills, gap analysis and development reports. Other reports can be provided upon request.

Here's how it works:

- Quantum Services or your company's administrator sets up your company specifications i.e. survey questions, rating scales, categories and improvement recommendations. The administrator then selects participants and, in a few easy steps, sends emails to all participants who will be receiving feedback.
- Participants list who they would like to receive feedback from, sending emails to them through the system. (Respondents without email require an additional step.)
- Respondents click on an email link, complete the survey with a few clicks of the mouse and the data is uploaded to the system.
- Your administrator prints the needed reports and provides the information to the participants.

All data collected remains anonymous. Once your system is in place, surveys can be sent out consistently and systematically measuring improvement!
